New Cigar Veranda Opens in London

Posted by Jimmy McGhee

A new COSA (Comfortable Outdoor Smoking Area) has opened up in the heart of London.

51 Buckingham Gate, previously the Crowne Plaza, now part of the Taj Hotel organisation, has added a veranda to complement their existing courtyard in providing an ideal location for cigar smokers in the capital.

Set in plush 5-star surroundings the veranda offers the correct balance of cover and privacy, while allowing the opportunity to view the intriguing Shakespearean terracotta frieze that sweeps the surrounding town houses. They offer an extensive range of champagnes and cocktails from mid-afternoon until late on Sunday through to Thursday and also open for dinner on Friday and Saturday. The veranda has a capacity for 30 people and the hotel has indicated that they welcome table bookings for the evening. To make reservations or to visit their website, click here.

Below the veranda the already well established Courtyard at 51 remains a firm favourite for cigar smokers in the know. The a la carte menus offering Lebanese, Moroccan and Turkish fare all cooked on the garden barbecue. They also have a series of special evenings planned such as the four opera dining nights on 30th & 31st and the July, 20th & 21st August.
